

NORTHWEST ATLANTA INDUSTRIAL AREA FREIGHT STUDY

FREIGHT ATL: NORTHWEST

ABOUT THE STUDY

Freight ATL: Northwest addresses goods movement, traffic operations, and related planning needs in northwest Atlanta. The study is supported by the Atlanta Regional Commission, Atlanta City Councilmember Dustin Hillis (District 9), and Invest Atlanta. Atlanta Department of City Planning is leading the study to ensure that Atlanta’s transportation system can sustain the area’s competitive industrial sector and high quality of life in the neighborhoods that support it.

The study area is home to growing residential neighborhoods, active commercial corridors, multiple Community Improvement Districts (CIDs) and Tax Allocation Districts (TADs), and the Northwest Atlanta Industrial Area that is designated as a “Production Conservation Area” by Atlanta City Design. This area, including the Atlanta Industrial Park, a portion of Fulton Industrial Blvd., and the Chattahoochee Industrial District, contains over half the land zoned for industry in the city. The study will recommend ways for industrial businesses to co-exist alongside other uses.

TIMELINE AND CONTACT DETAILS

The 18-month study will conclude in the summer of 2023. The City is committed to a participatory and inclusive planning process and will provide multiple engagement and community outreach opportunities.
